IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF CONNECTICUT

IN RE: AGGRENEX ANTITRUST LITIGATION	Master Docket No. 3:14-cv-02516 (SRU) Judge Stefan R. Underhill

DECLARATION OF RUSSELL A. CHORUSH IN SUPPORT OF CLASS COUNSEL'S MOTION FOR AN AWARD OF ATTORNEYS' FEES, REIMBURSEMENT OF EXPENSES AND INCENTIVE AWARDS TO CLASS REPRESENTATIVES

I, Russell A. Chorush, under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States of America, declare as follows:

1. I am a partner at the law firm of Heim, Payne & Chorush, LLP ("HPC"). I am submitting this declaration in support of Class Counsel's motion for attorneys' fees and reimbursement of expenses in connection of services rendered by HPC in the above-captioned litigation. A copy of HPC's resume is attached hereto as Exhibit 1. The factual matters set forth and the assertions made herein are true and correct to the best of my knowledge, information and belief.

2. HPC was responsible for issues relating to patents in connection with the above-captioned litigation. HPC's responsibilities included issues relating to the validity, infringement, and enforceability of United States Patent No. 6,015,577. In particular, HPC was involved in the following specific activities in this case:

- Investigating the potential filing of the case, development of the initial strategy relating to patent issues, and drafting a memorandum relating to patent issues;
- Reviewing and/or coding of documents;
- Reviewing and revising briefing including Plaintiffs' opposition to Defendants' motion to dismiss;
- Drafting various discovery requests including requests for production, interrogatories, third party subpoenas, and Rule 30(b)(6) deposition notices;
- Managing compliance with various third party subpoenas;
- Researching and reviewing prior art relevant to invalidity theories;
- Researching, identifying, and retaining experts whose testimony would relate to patent issues;
- Preparing for and taking depositions of fact witnesses whose testimony related to patent and intellectual property issues including the depositions of Michael Morris, Lauren Rabinovich, and Alan Stempel;
- Assessing the documentary and testimonial evidence, researching relevant legal issues, and formulating strategy and preparing memoranda on the merits of various legal positions and strategies;
- Assisting in the preparation of expert reports;
- Reviewing and revising the mediation statement; and
- Participating in the mediation.

3. All attorneys, paralegals and clerks at my firm were instructed to keep contemporaneous time records reflecting their time spent on this case.

4. The schedule below is a summary of the amount of time spent by my firm's attorneys and paralegals (or other assistant, to the extent they were performing paralegal tasks) from the inception of the litigation through September 6, 2017, the date that the motion seeking preliminary approval of the Settlement was filed with the Court.

5. The schedule was prepared from contemporaneous, daily time records regularly prepared and maintained by my firm. Time expended in preparing this application for fees and reimbursement of expenses has not been included in this request.

HEIM, PAYNE & CHORUSH, L.L.P.

Founded in January 2006, Heim, Payne & Chorush L.L.P. (www.heimpaynechorush.com) specializes exclusively in intellectual property-related litigation. The Firm's founding partners (Messrs. Heim, Payne and Chorush) previously worked together at a predecessor firm, Conley, Rose P.C. During their tenure at the predecessor firm, the Firm's founding partners handled cases for Conley Rose P.C. on several nationally publicized cases that were favorably resolved, and that success has carried over to the new Firm.

These past successes are borne out by the numbers: since 2003, the Firm's partners have represented plaintiffs in national lawsuits that have resulted in recoveries of over 1.15 Billion dollars ($1,150,000,000).

The Firm currently has six partners and six associates. Messrs. Heim, Payne, Chorush and Wilson and Ms. Jones have each been named in H Texas Magazine's "Best Lawyers in Houston" edition, and each of the partners in the Firm has been named a Super Lawyer or a Rising Star by Texas Monthly magazine. Most of the Firm's attorneys attended top tier law schools and have undergraduate and graduate degrees in engineering and the sciences.

Since its formation in 2006, the Firm has hired several attorneys. Three of these attorneys are former clerks at the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals (Messrs. Wilson and Larson and Ms. Jones), and one of our attorneys has recently departed to clerk at the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals. Five of our attorneys are former clerks from U.S. District Courts (Messrs. Bullwinkel, First, Harris, Larson and Baxter). Additionally, one of the Firm's attorneys (Messrs. Chorush) achieved the top-score on the Texas Bar Exam. Short bios of the attorneys are attached. The Firm's attorneys have extensive experience in trade secret and patent cases, which represent the majority of the Firm's docket.

In general, the Firm represents plaintiffs and defendants nationwide in patent, trade secret and antitrust litigation in a broad range of technologies including microprocessors, software, computer architecture, memory control systems, cellular telephone systems, data transmission systems, Internet radio, audio and video streaming, database caching software, on-line gaming systems, computer controlled lighting, pharmaceuticals, drilling and other downhole systems, and natural gas conversion systems. Our attorneys have a wide variety of technical backgrounds and our expertise lets us handle all facets of intellectual property litigation. Our legal teams handle every aspect of the most complicated patent disputes for some of the largest energy and technology firms. In addition, we frequently represent individuals and smaller companies against Fortune 500 companies.

One of our hallmarks is that we frequently work closely with other firms in handling cases. We have served as litigation co-counsel with several of the top litigation boutique firms in the country, including Susman Godfrey, Garwin Gerstein and Fisher, Berger Montague, Odem & desRoches, and Boies Schiller. When these firms need assistance in handling large complex patent cases, we are one of the firms that they turn to in litigating these lawsuits.

Michael Heim is the founding partner and managing director of the firm. He possesses a unique breadth of experience in the patent industry with more than 25 years of litigation experience, experience examining and prosecuting patents at the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office, and a scientific background. Mike's principal focus is intellectual property litigation, and he is known in the industry as a skilled litigator of patent cases. He has led litigation teams from complaint to judgment in federal district courts in the Eastern District of Texas and across the country, winning favorable settlements and judgments for his clients.

Mike has a degree in electrical engineering, and early in his career, served three years as a Patent Examiner at the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office where he specialized in electrical communications and computer software and hardware. He often litigates cases involving technology related to his expertise in the electronics field, including computer hardware and software and wireless communications. Particularly, he has handled cases in fields ranging from microprocessors to antenna technology to on-line gaming systems to wireless LAN. Mr. Heim has also litigated class action antitrust lawsuits against pharmaceutical companies misusing intellectual property laws to maintain exclusive rights to brand-name drugs in order to keep generic products from entering the market.

Mike has been recognized as a leading lawyer by Forbes Magazine, Thomson-Reuters' Super Lawyers, Chambers USA, H Texas Magazine and IP Law & Business, among others. He has served as past President of the State Bar of Texas Intellectual Property Section and the Houston Intellectual Property Law Section. Mr. Heim has frequently lectured on litigation and intellectual property matters.

REPRESENTATIVE TRIALS AND APPEALS SINCE 2011

Trials and Appeals in 2015

- Dataquill Limited v. ZTE USA, Inc. (E.D. Tex): On June 18, 2015, a jury in Marshall returned a verdict in favor of Dataquill Limited on patent claims asserted against ZTE USA (the fourth largest smartphone manufacturer in the U.S.). (Other cases against Apple and Huawei were resolved before trial.) The Dataquill patents concern smartphone technology, and were asserted against ZTE's Android smartphones. The jury found that all asserted claims were valid and infringed, and awarded $31.5 million. This was the twelfth largest verdict in Texas for 2015 and the fifty-ninth largest nationally, according to VerdictSearch. The HPC team representing Dataquill included

- Commil USA, LLC v. Cisco Systems, Inc. (Supreme Court of the United States): On May 26, 2015, the Supreme Court issued a 6-2 decision in favor of Commil. The trial is described further below under Trials in 2011. In this landmark decision, the Supreme Court held that an accused infringer's good faith belief in patent invalidity is not a defense to inducing infringement. Appeals in 2014

- Two-Way Media, LLC v. AT&T Inc., et. al. (Federal Circuit Court of Appeals): On March 19, 2015, the Federal Circuit affirmed the $40 million Final Judgment in favor of Two-Way Media against AT&T, which is described further below under Trials in 2013. Mr. Payne argued for Two-Way Media before the Federal Circuit in December 2014. Click Here To See The Federal Circuit Opinion.

Trials in 2013

- Two-Way Media LLC v. AT&T Inc. et al. (W.D. Tex.): On March 20, 2013, a jury in San Antonio returned a verdict in favor of Two-Way Media LLC, a company based in Colorado, on patent claims asserted against several AT&T entities and its related regional carriers. The TWM patents concern audio and video streaming, and were asserted against AT&T's U-verse television service (which employs Microsoft's Mediaroom software). The jury found that AT&T infringed the patent claims under the doctrine of equivalents. The jury further found that AT&T had not proven the patent claims invalid, and awarded damages of $27.5 million. This was the seventh largest verdict in Texas for 2013, according to VerdictSearch. The Court entered a Final Judgment in favor of Two-Way Media of $40 million, after adding pre-judgment interest. The HPC team representing Two-Way Media included Mike Heim, Les Payne, and Micah Howe. The HPC team worked with attorneys from Susman Godfrey (including Parker Folse and Max Tribble). Trials in 2012

- PACT XPP technologies, AG v. Xilinx, Inc. and Avnet, Inc. (E.D. Tex.): On May 18, 2012, a jury in the Eastern District of Texas, Marshall Division, returned a verdict finding that two patents held by PACT were valid and were infringed by Xilinx and Avnet. The jury further found that Xilinx's infringement was willful, and it awarded damages to PACT in the amount of $15.39 million. This was the 18th largest verdict in Texas for 2012, according to VerdictSearch. The District Court entered a Final Judgment of $43 million in favor of PACT after awarding prejudgment interest, enhanced damages and attorney's fees. Trials in 2011

- Fractus, S.A. v. Samsung Electronics Co., Ltd. et al. (E.D. Tex.): On May 23, 2011, a jury in Tyler returned a verdict in favor of Fractus, S.A, an antenna company based in Barcelona, Spain, on all trial claims asserted against Samsung. The claims were spread across four related patents in Fractus' Multilevel Patent family, generally covering multiband antennas used in portable communication devices, such as cell phones. The jury found that Samsung infringed the claims literally and under the doctrine of equivalents, as well as finding Samsung's infringement willful. After finding that Samsung had not proven the patent claims invalid, the jury entered a verdict in excess of $23M. This was the tenth largest jury verdict in Texas for 2011, according to VerdictSearch. A final judgment was entered in favor of Fractus for approximately $42 million dollars, after damages were enhanced. The HPC team representing Fractus included Michael Heim, Les Payne, and Micah Howe. The HPC team worked seamlessly with attorneys from Susman Godfrey (including Max Tribble, Justin Nelson, and Victoria Cook) and Ward & Smith (Johnny Ward) to produce this result. Prior to trial, the Fractus legal team also assisted in licensing the Fractus patent portfolio to other third parties, resulting in licensing fees approaching $70 million. Click Here To See The Jury Verdict; Click Here To See The Final Judgment.
- Commil, USA v. Cisco Systems, Inc. (E.D. Tex.): On April 8, 2011, a jury in Marshall, Texas returned a verdict in favor of Commil USA, LLC on all infringement claims asserted against Cisco Systems, Inc. The jury, which deliberated less than two hours, decided Cisco induced infringement on a patent for wireless technology developed by three Israeli engineers and awarded Commil $63.8 million dollars. This was the seventh largest jury verdict in Texas for 2011, according to VerdictSearch. Commil had purchased the infringed patent in 2006 for $400,000.00. A final judgment was entered in favor of Commil for approximately $74 million dollars. Mr. Payne represented Commil at trial and worked with trial counsel from Sayles Werbner (Mark Werbner & Dick Sayles) to achieve this result. Click Here To See The Jury Verdict; Click Here To See The Final Judgment.

Other Representative Cases

- MicroUnity Systems Engineering, Inc. v. Intel & Dell:

MicroUnity filed suit against Intel Corporation, alleging that Intel's Pentium III, Pentium 4, and Pentium M processors infringed MicroUnity's patents covering its "mediaprocessor" technology. MicroUnity also sued Dell, Inc. for Dell's use of allegedly infringing Intel processors. In October 2005, one month before trial was to commence, MicroUnity, Intel, and Dell reached a settlement. Intel publicly disclosed the financial terms of the settlement as $300 million in its Third Quarter 2005 10-Q.

- Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organisation v. Lenovo (United States) Inc. et al: In 2011 and 2012, Mr. Payne and other attorneys from HPC represented the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organisation, Australia's national science agency, in a series of patent litigation suits involving wireless local area networking technology. These cases were settled shortly before trial on terms that were very favorable to CSIRO.
- Rock Bit International, Inc. v. Smith International, Inc.: Mr. Payne represented Smith International in its defense of Plaintiff's claims of patent infringement. Plaintiff sought over $100 million in damages. After a Markman hearing, the court granted Smith's summary judgment motion for patent invalidity. See Rock Bit Intern., Inc. v. Smith Intern., Inc., 82 F.Supp. 2d 667 (S.D. Tex. 1999). The court then granted Smith's motion for attorney's fees, awarding Smith over $2.7 million in attorneys fees and costs. See Rock Bit Intern., Inc. v. Smith Intern., Inc., 82 F.Supp. 2d 677 (S.D. Tex. 1999). The case was favorably settled while on appeal to the Federal Circuit.
- Two-Way Media vs. AOL (S.D. Tex.): Mr. Payne and other attorneys from HPC as well as attorneys from Susman Godfrey represented Two-Way Media in a patent suit against AOL on audio and video streaming patents. The case settled during trial, and after a successful Markman Ruling.
- Vasudevan Software, Inc. vs. IBM Corp. and Oracle Corp. (N.D. Cal.): Plaintiff Vasudevan Software Inc. ("VSi") owns the rights to several database patents: U.S. Patent No. 6,877,006 B1 ("the '006 Patent"), U.S. Patent No. 7,167,864 B1 ("the '864 Patent") and U.S. Patent 7,720,861 ("the '861 Patent"). VSi alleged that IBM infringed the '006, '864 and '861 Patents by making, using, selling or importing InfoSphere Warehouse and Cognos Software products. VSi also alleged that Oracle infringed the '006, '864 and '861 Patents by making, using, selling or importing the Oracle Business Intelligence Enterprise Edition Plus, among other products. The case settled in the fall of 2011 after a Markman ruling.

Mr. Wilson's practice focuses on patent litigation in federal district courts and Inter Partes Review. He also has represented clients in connection with cases involving trade secret litigation in both state and federal courts, patent-related antitrust litigation, and intellectual property related appeals. With his engineering degree and his many years of prior work experience as an engineer, Mr. Wilson brings a robust understanding of technical issues and an ability to engage with the technical aspects of cases. He is proficient in a broad range of technical fields, having successfully litigated both pharmaceutical technology cases and computer hardware and software technology cases involving inventions directed to processors, game software, caching software, power management, and radio communications, among others. Mr. Wilson has efficiently and effectively handled complex litigation matters including the coordination of multi-defendant patent litigation. Mr. Wilson presented trial arguments on behalf of the patentee in the first Inter Partes Review trial to result in allowance of all challenged claims.

Prior to joining the firm, Mr. Wilson clerked for the honorable Richard Linn at the United States Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. He served as Editor-in-Chief of the Texas Review of Law & Politics during law school.

Mr. Wilson currently serves on the executive committee of the Austin Intellectual Property Inn of Court and is a member of various professional organizations.

well as a team of other lawyers from Foster Pepper PLLC and Boies, Schiller & Flexner LLP represented ROY-G-BIV Corporation in an Inter Partes Review proceeding involving two patents owned by ROY-G-BIV related to motion control software. ABB, the petitioner, sought to invalidate the patents on multiple grounds. After a trial at which Doug argued for ROY-G-BIV, the Patent Trial and Appeal Board held that ABB failed to prove that any of the challenged claims in either patent were unpatentable. This case was the first PTAB trial to result in affirmance of all challenged claims of any patent.

- MicroUnity Systems Engineering, Inc. v. Sony Corporation: Doug and a team of other lawyers from HPC and Susman Godfrey represented MicroUnity in its patent infringement lawsuit against Sony Corporation in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Texas (Marshall Division). MicroUnity alleged that Sony's Playstation 2, Playstation 3, and Playstation Portable game consoles as well as some game software infringed MicroUnity's media processor and other patents. The parties reached a confidential settlement of the case in the fourth quarter of 2007.
- MicroUnity Systems Engineering, Inc. v. Advanced Micro Devices, Inc.: Doug and a team of other lawyers from HPC and Susman Godfrey represented MicroUnity in its patent infringement lawsuit against Advanced Micro Devices, Inc. in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Texas (Marshall Division). MicroUnity alleged that AMD's general purpose processors infringed MicroUnity's media processor patents. The parties reached a confidential settlement of the case in the fourth quarter of 2007.
- Halliburton Energy Services, Inc. et al. v. Packers Plus Energy Services, Inc. et al.: Wilson and a team of other lawyers from HPC and Lynch, Chappell & Alsup, PC represented Halliburton in its trade secret misappropriation and breach of contract case against both individual and corporate defendants including Packers Plus Energy Services, Inc. in the 238th District Court in Midland County, Texas. Halliburton alleged that the individual defendants breached their employment contracts with Halliburton and misappropriated trade secrets in forming and carrying on the business of Packers Plus Energy Services. The case settled favorably shortly before trial.
- PalTalk Holdings, Inc. v. Microsoft Corporation: Wilson and a team of other lawyers from HPC and Susman Godfrey represented PalTalk in its patent infringement lawsuit against Microsoft in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Texas (Marshall Division). Alden has litigated patent infringement cases in courts across the United States. His litigation experience spans a variety of technical fields including electrical and computer engineering, telecommunications, and biochemistry.

Alden served as a law clerk to the Honorable Roy Payne of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Texas in Marshall, Texas. During his time at the Court, Alden also served as an acting law clerk to District Judge Rodney Gilstrap. During Alden's clerkship, the Marshall Division was one of the busiest federal courts in the United States and nearly half of all U.S. patent cases were filed there. Alden assisted with multiple jury trials in intellectual property, products liability, and civil rights. He also assisted with dozens of claim construction hearings.

Alden earned his law degree at the University of Texas where he was an Associate Editor of the Texas Law Review. While at UT, Alden was a finalist in the Intramural Mediation Competition, a semifinalist in the Hutcheson Moot Court competition, and received the Legal Research Board "Best Memorandum Award." Chris practices complex litigation, primarily in antitrust and patent matters. He is often consulted for his ability to combine outside-the-box thinking with a unique breadth of knowledge of technology, procedure, and local practice.

Selected Legal Successes

- When a computer security pioneer faced an adverse Federal Circuit decision in a suit against industry giant IBM, most observers thought the case was over. Instead, Chris saw an opportunity, and stepped in to design a groundbreaking strategy to allow his client to dispute the lower court's erroneous claim construction for a second time before the Federal Circuit due to the summary nature of the Court's prior decision. After accepting his argument, the Federal Circuit reversed the lower court decision, saving the case and allowing Chris's client to proceed. The United States Supreme Court denied IBM's petition for certiorari. Legal commentators have since written about the significance of the Federal Circuit's decision. Chris's work on the case was a major reason he was one of the youngest attorneys ever to be selected as a "Rising Star" by Washington Superlawyers magazine.
- Chris worked with lawyers from AZA to represent a patent holder in the cutting-edge HD voice space against Motorola. Chris provided guidance through a difficult issue that required a combination of detailed technical knowledge and intimate experience with the local rules and practices of the Eastern District of Texas. With Chris' help, AZA secured a $9 million-plus verdict against Motorola. The jury also found that the

- A Fortune 200 financial company was sued for patent infringement in a case that was alleged to be worth over $1 billion at the outset. Chris and his team set to work, and obtained a number of advantageous rulings and claim construction findings that were devastating to the plaintiff's case. Soon after, the plaintiff relented and decided to settle rather than risk trial. After the settlement, in an attempt to escape the specter of its prior case gone awry, the plaintiff relocated its litigation campaign against other parties to a new venue. The relocation was unsuccessful.

Background

Chris began his career practicing at a large international law firm in Washington, DC. His practice included representing some of the largest companies in the world in high-stakes technology litigation and handling a broad array of legal matters for a growing education technology startup.

In 2013, Chris was asked to serve as a law clerk to the Honorable Roy S. Payne of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Texas in Marshall, Texas – the busiest federal trial court in the United States at that time. While in Marshall, Chris handled over a thousand cases and assisted with large jury trials in antitrust, intellectual property, catastrophic personal injury, and civil rights matters. During his time at the Court, Chris also served as an acting law clerk to District Judge Rodney Gilstrap and then-Chief Judge Leonard Davis.

Chris graduated cum laude from the University of Florida Levin College of Law, where he earned the highest overall grade in Advanced Patent Law and Intellectual Property Litigation, as well as serving as a board member on the Journal of Technology Law and Policy. Chris was also named Pro Bono Student of the Year in 2010 for his pro bono work with indigent defendants in the 12th Judicial Circuit of Florida.

Chris obtained a breadth of experience prior to attending law school, spending a year as the only undergraduate research assistant in a groundbreaking search and rescue robotics lab, serving on the Board of Directors of a major entertainment venue, and working for two years as a management intern for the Stanley Cup champion Tampa Bay Lightning.

Chris Limbacher took a unique path to becoming a tech-focused patent litigator. Before joining the Heim, Payne & Chorush litigation team, Chris spent most of the past decade working as a software engineer in the health care and oil & gas industries. After multiple years developing commercial products – including enterprise software suites, real-time control systems, and automated wireless tracking systems – he decided it was time to take on new challenges as a practicing attorney. Now, Chris focuses on patent litigation for a variety of companies in cases involving the same computer technologies and electrical engineering issues that he mastered in his software engineering career.

In both technology and in law, Chris' approach to solving problems has stayed the same. He learned first-hand the value of immersion to provide the degree of expertise necessary to excel. His hands-on engineering experience in the oil & gas industry resulted in multiple invention disclosures and a pending patent for automating drill pipe tally during drilling. Similarly, his in-depth study of the health care industry led him to write and publish an article on the effects of state and national legislation on health care pricing. Chris brings that same deep-dive approach to patent litigation. "It's important to immerse yourself, both in how the technology works and how the industry works, in order to provide the best solution to a client's issue," he says.

As a student at the University of Houston Law Center, Chris served as Note and Comment Editor for the Houston Law Review and he was honored for authoring the year's best student article. His numerous academic awards include the Dean's Scholarship, the Stephen S. Rudolph Scholarship for Outstanding Academic Achievement, and multiple LEX Awards for top law school section scores in Contracts,
